

Competitive spirit - The Times reports on the 2TG/The Times National Mooting Competition 2019-20

More than 250 entrants to The Times's annual student moot competition, which is organised with the chambers 2TG, have spent their summer toiling through the preliminary rounds of this year's event. "This is a significant increase from last year, so it is testament to the growing interest in this national competition, which we have been told by a number of students is regarded as a prestigious fixture in their legal diary," says Nina Goolamali, QC, who this week is overseeing the third round. This year's storyline is inspired by the BBC thriller Line of Duty. By the time of the final at the British Library in London in March we can expect to be baffled out of our legal wits. Expect a sequel.

Edward Fennell

September 5 2019, Law Diary: The Times